Crypto Currency

Cryptocurrency is a digital or virtual form of currency secured by cryptography. Bitcoin, created in 2009 by an unknown person or group under the pseudonym Satoshi Nakamoto, was the first decentralized cryptocurrency. Ethereum, launched in 2015, introduced smart contracts. Cryptocurrencies operate on decentralized networks based on blockchain technology. Blockchain technology ensures transparency, security, and immutability of transactions without the need for a central authority like a bank or government. Besides Bitcoin and Ethereum, there are thousands of other cryptocurrencies, including Litecoin, Ripple, and Cardano, each with its unique features and use cases. Cryptocurrencies can be exchanged for traditional fiat currencies or used to purchase goods and services.

FOREX MARKET

The foreign exchange market is where currencies are traded. This international market's most unique aspect is that it lacks a central marketplace. Instead, currency trading is conducted electronically over the counter(OTC). This means that all transactions occur via computer networks among traders worldwide rather than on one centralized exchange. The market is open 24 hours a day, five and a half days a week. Currencies are traded worldwide in the major financial centers of Frankfurt, Hong Kong, London, New York, Paris, Singapore, Sydney, Tokyo, and Zurich—across almost every time zone. This means the forex market begins in Tokyo and Hong Kong when the U.S. trading day ends. The forex market can be highly active at any time, with price quotes changing constantly.
